Reflecting on our teaching practice to promote inclusive representation in pedagogy and excellence in language leadership

Below are links to our Language Educators Online (LEO) free CPD platform with dedicated content to explore language teaching through the perspective of Black cultural and linguistic diaspora.

Please do explore them – we hope they will inform your practice.

You'll need to log in or create your free account when you first click through; once you have done this you will go straight through to the page.

REPRESENTATION IN LANGUAGE TEACHING

Elaborate – The Intercultural Dimension: 2. Reflecting opportunities for learning

In this unit, we will guide through a critical reading of Rudine Sims Bishop's seminal article on Mirrors, Windows and Sliding doors. This can inform how you select authentic and culturally rich material in your teaching practice.

DECENTRING FROM DOMINANT NARRATIVE

Elaborate – The Intercultural Dimension: 3. Inspiring decentring

In this unit, we look back on the seminal analysis and recommendations from the Swann report published in 1985 advocating for inclusive and diverse education. This can inform your teaching practice in developing the use of positive role models from the Black diaspora communities.
